

Zac, 11 years old from the United Kingdom, is strong despite his own challenges and uses his understanding to help others who are in a similar situation to his own. Just like Pocahontas from Disney's Pocahontas, Zac strives to make a difference to other people's lives.

Despite being told he would never speak, and only being able to create four out of the twenty sounds necessary for speech, Zac won joint first prize in a global speech competition and chose to donate his winnings to GOSH Charity. He has since raised an amazing amount of money for the organisation.

Zac and his family are very proud to be ambassadors for the hospital's charity and are dedicated to raising more funds and awareness, in order to support other children born with rare and complex medical conditions, and their families. Zac demonstrates courage and kindness through his unwavering bravery and by being an inspirational role model for children and young people.

GOSH Charity is one of Disney's longest-serving charity partners. Every day, 619 children and young people from across the UK arrive at Great Ormond Street Hospital (GOSH) for life-changing treatments. To find out more about GOSH, please visit the charity's website:
